FOR SALE-BELOW IS A TRUE COPY OF A FOR SALE-BELOW IS A TRUE COPY OF A letter which speaks for itself, from the Ohio National Bank of this city, by their attorney general, T. H. Anderson, U. S. district attorney for Washington. This is a letter similar to many we have recently received from parties who are offered a handsome net profit on their investment at Fort Myer Heights, but who invariably refuse to accept on the grounds that the memorial bridge bill passed the Senate on March 2, 1901, without one dissenting vote, and sufficiently assures them that the same bill will pass the House next session and make Fort Myer Heights the most desirable property for speculation in or the most desirable property for speculation in around Washington.

The State Department has received from Consul General Maxwell, at Santo Domingo, a copy of the message of the president to congress regarding the suppression of export duties. In compliance with this message a law which took effect May 1, 1901, has been enacted, abolishing the duty well, amounted to about one-fourth of the total income of the republic. The statistics for 1900 furnished by the minister of the treasury and commerce give the following favorable figures, says the consul: Import duties, $1,756.26; export duties, $635,785. I'educting from the export duties, $130,491 for the same time as the candidates for admission to the differential duties there remains $565,the differential duties there remains $505, 293. Taking the revenue for the first three months of 1901 ($897,654) as a basis, the revenue for the year may be estimated at $2,285,322, from which deducting the export duty of $565,293, there remains $2,-285,322, with which sum the government can meet its estimated expenses and most preceived obligations. pressing obligations.

Word of the successful launching of the battle ship Ohio was received at the Navy Department shortly after the event occurred, and learning that the President was able to participate, the acting secretary of the navy, Mr. Hackett, sent the following congratulatory message to the CAMPBELL CARRINGTON, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
